Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling invented by H. R. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.

People are talking of Generals Grant and Sherman, and Sheridan and Thomas and the brave soldiers who have won immortal renown in achieving these great results. Somebody tells Rip that General Grant is President. He swears Buchanan was President when he went to sleep, and wants to know whether provisions have been sent to the garrison at Fort Sumter. His friends shake him up and tell him that Sumter was bombarded, that there was a great war and a great debt incurred in carrying it on, and that the whole nation is engaged in the work of paying it. Rip don't understand [illegible] that slaves ought to be returned [illegible] would be one of a posse comitatus to return them to their masters under the Fugitive Slave Law. It is in vain that the old grannies of the Oregon Democracy tell Rip that that is all past and gone long, long ago. He gets an old copy of the Union, and points to the Dred Scott decision by that revered old Democrat, Roger B. Taney. The old grannies tell him that Roger B. Taney is dead and that the Dred Scott decision is dead, and that slavery is dead, and that the old Democratic issues are dead, and they whisper hoarsely in his ear that the Democratic party is dead! dead!! "Nevertheless," say the old grannies, "we must get together and talk matters over, pass resolutions and stand firmly by the good old principles of Pierce and Buchanan and Taney, and you, O Rip, will be a tower of strength with your antiquated appearance, and your talk that has the good old Democratic [illegible] of no interference with slavery where it now exists, and of the right to extend it to the Territories. We will repudiate this National debt which has been created while we have been asleep." Need we say that the Democratic Rip Van Winkle was delegated to draw up this resolution? Here is what he produced after a careful reading of Pierce and Buchanan, and Judge Taney:

"The continual payment of interest on the debt, together with other enormous expenses, make the burden too heavy to be borne, that the amount of the debt was increased more than two-fold by the illegal manner in which it was created; that there is neither justice nor wisdom in the repeated payment of principal by continued payment of interest, and that there should be an equitable adjustment of the debt."

What Rip and the old grannies mean is, that they do not intend to pay the debt at all, for, if they can repudiate one half of it, they can, by the same right, repudiate the other half. "This," say these grannies, "is where we were when we went to sleep, and when Buchanan was President, Floyd was Secretary of War and Hon. Jefferson Davis was in the Senate of the United States, and fugitive slaves were returned to their rightful owners under the Fugitive Slave law." There is no harm in Rip and the Democratic grannies of Oregon getting together in their little conventions and talking over old times, but it would be well for them to read up a little of what has been going on during their ten years slumber. Three amendments have been incorporated into the Constitution of the United States, one of which is as follows:

"ARTICLE XIV, Sec. 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection and rebellion shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any State shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claims for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims shall be held illegal and void."

When the Oregon Democracy become convinced that this is a part of the Constitution of the United States, and that the progressive people of all parts of Oregon recognize and propose to stand by it, they will discover that their Convention was more a chant of Democratic burial than a platform of future progress. They were equally behind the times on other issues which were presented at the Convention. The election takes place the first Monday in June and embraces everything from Governor and Legislature to Congress and county officers. The thoroughness with which the Democratic Rip and the old grannies of Oregon cling to the dead past and ignore and repudiate the work of the last ten years, will no doubt send them into another decade of slumber. Peace to their manes, say we, for that is all that will be left of them.

Republican Platform.

Adopted by the Republican Territorial Convention at Vancouver, April 21st, 1870.

Resolved, That the Republicans of Washington Territory are in full accord with the great Republican party of the Nation, the party that maintained and carried the Government through the most [illegible] and gigantic rebellion known in history, withstanding the aid and assistance of [illegible] enemies abroad and traitors at home; the party that successfully triumphed over the arms of the rebels at the South, that removed the blot from the national escutcheon that disgraced us in the eyes of the civilized world; that sustained our financial credit beyond the hopes of the most sanguine; that has shown a magnanimity and forbearance to the vanquished that challenges the admiration of mankind, and that ever true to the best interests of the people has opened a highway for the interchange of products of the Eastern and Western [illegible] of the continent, [illegible] marked as one of the wonders of the age.

Resolved, That we regard the administration of [illegible] eminently successful; that the [illegible] which were presented by the [illegible] of eleven States at the close of the [illegible] have been settled in accordance with [illegible] principles of justice and political [illegible] and we confidently look for a speedy, harmonious and perfect restoration of the constitutional relations between all the States and the general Government.

Resolved, That the management of the finances by the Legislative and Executive branches of the Government by the present Administration, has been wise [illegible] and careful, and we refer with [illegible] pleasure [illegible] the fact that no financial [illegible] has occurred; that the credit of the Government has been sustained, and that the relative value of specie and paper currency has approximated [illegible] consistent with the [illegible] commercial and financial affairs.

Resolved, That the [illegible] and unflinching position [illegible] Administration in regard to [illegible] has already produced the [illegible] which are evidenced not [illegible] Great Britain to [illegible] willingness to [illegible] recognized principles of [illegible] law.

Resolved, That the [illegible] National and Territorial [illegible] be conducted in all their [illegible] the most rigid economy; that the [illegible] as far as practicable be [illegible] direct taxation, and that we [illegible] repudiation in any form, because the honor of the nation is of more importance than any pecuniary consideration.

Resolved, That we earnestly urge upon the General Government the speedy settlement of [illegible] rights to the San Juan and other Islands lying between the Canal de Haro and Rosario [illegible] and the acknowledgment by Great Britain of our [illegible] thereto, and the importance of [illegible] negotiations for the purpose of [illegible] British Columbia to the United States.

Resolved, That the Northern Pacific Railroad and its branches are works of national importance, hence we call upon the General Government for the most liberal aid and assistance to secure its early construction and completion.

Signs of Weakening

There are new and conclusive evidences that the repudiators in all parts of the State are growing weak on the "vital eighth resolution." Some days ago we spoke of this, and every hour it is becoming more apparent. Many of the repudiators are now trying to deny the record they made at the beginning of the canvass. They see the displeasure of the people, and are trembling at the prospect of defeat in the election.

It is very noticeable that the repudiation organs, which were vieing with each other a few weeks since for the most advanced and extreme position, are becoming very moderate. Some of them decline to reiterate the monstrous propositions they then brought forward, and others vehemently reject them. The Albany Democrat and Eugene Guard declare that the debt ought to be paid, but paid in greenbacks; not repudiated or cut down by the process of "equitable adjustment" advocated by Kelly, Slater and Fay. As for the Herald, it has been completely silenced on this subject, and dares not attempt to maintain against its assailants the propositions it brought forward and contended for a few weeks ago.

In the Albany Convention Ben Hayden was an outspoken advocate of repudiation. He and Fay were the champions of the doctrine on that occasion, and their sentiments were precisely the same. But Hayden has delivered a speech in Polk county in which he renounced the doctrine and declared that his party would not repudiate a dollar of the public debt! What has produced these changes of position? No one will suppose that there has been any change in the views of these champions. They are certainly for repudiation as strong as ever they were. The explanation of the matter is that they fear the judgment of the people. But though they are now trying to disown a doctrine they once advocated, they would immediately reaffirm it after the election in case they should succeed, and claim their triumph as the verdict of Oregon in favor of repudiation.

We call on Republicans throughout the State to hold these men to their record. Give them the "vital eighth resolution" and their first interpretation of it in deadly doses. They said at the offstart that this was the one great issue of the campaign. As they would have it so, so let it be. No wriggling out of it now?

Improvement of Our Rivers.

In the U. S. Senate, April 4th, inst., Senator Corbett introduced the following bill for the survey of the Columbia river, which was read twice and referred to the Committee on Commerce:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby directed to cause a survey of the Columbia River with a view of making that river navigable for steamers to Dalles City, Oregon, without change of cargo, with estimate cost of such improvement; and the sum of three thousand dollars, (or so much thereof as may be necessary) is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, to make such survey.

On the 6th inst. the following amendment was offered by Mr. Corbett, and being read, was referred to the same committee:

For the removal of obstructions and improving the Columbia River, above Celilo, fifty thousand dollars.

For the survey of the Willamette River, above Oregon City, with a view of making it navigable all the year, there is hereby appropriated two thousand dollars.

If the Democrats in Congress follow out the rule they have made for themselves, to oppose all internal improvements by the Government, they will of course oppose Mr. Corbett's bill and defeat it if possible. But the people of Oregon who are vitally interested in this matter, may rest assured that no effort will be spared on the part of our Republican Senators to get the bill passed; and they may still further rest assured that as the Republican party in Congress has heretofore given us all we have got and have stood by our material interests, so in this and all other matters looking to our assistance, they will still stand by us and give us what we may need for the development of the country. It is to the Republican party only that we can now look for help.

The Tariff Bill in Congress.

The discussion of the tariff bill in Congress has run through several weeks, and is still going on. All other business is kept back by it. The debate is prolonged out of all proportion to its results, chiefly by the action of the Democratic members, nearly every one of whom has something in his district that he is anxious to have protected, while he falls in with the Democratic cry of "free trade" as to everything else. An instance of this was seen in the conduct of Congressman Haight (Dem.) of New Jersey who put in an amendment to protect the manufacture of pottery, which is a prominent industry in his district, though he has contended in general for free trade, denounced the principle of protection and worked with his party to prevent the completion of the new tariff bill. This question is one upon which there is certain to be a good deal of party contention hereafter, as there has been heretofore. Whatever risk there may be in placing the interests of American labor under the shelter of a discriminating tariff, and keeping them so as long as the conditions and the rewards of industry here and abroad remain as they are, we imagine the Republican party will not hesitate to assume it. If the party is obliged on this account to shed some of the support it has counted upon to this time, it will on the other gain an army of adherents from the industrious middle class which increases more rapidly than any other, and all whose material interests are bound up in that policy which has been and will continue to be the support and pillar of the national prosperity.

Editorial Notes.

The American people are opposed to repudiation and all its substitutes and aliases. Therefore they will never permit any such monstrous doctrine as the miscalled theory of "equitable adjustment," enunciated in the Democratic platform of Oregon, and elaborated by the champions of that party here, to triumph.

It has been claimed for Mr. Grover that he "used all his influence" to elect Mr. Stout in 1859. Now here is a problem for Mr. Grover's organ, viz: As Marion county in 1858 gave 600 Democratic majority, and in 1859 gave 800 majority for Mr. Logan over Mr. Stout, how great was the "influence" of Mr. Grover, and what was it worth to Mr. Stout? Do the Democrats of Oregon want an "influential" man of that kind for Governor?

A discussion recently arose at Oregon City respecting the fifteenth amendment. A well known Democrat who had opposed that measure vehemently until it was adopted came to the conclusion that its results might not be so very bad after all. "I s'pose," he remarked, "that it 'ill be all right to go to the polls and vote with niggers, but I'll be [illegible] if ever I'll go to a bar and drink with one!" We would advise his colored brethren, if they would save their money, not to give him a chance. Should they expect him to decline he would [illegible] betray the [illegible].

The Canadian Parliament [illegible] a proposition [illegible] the Canada Central line, so that it will reach from Montreal to the Pacific Ocean. The route would run north of the great lakes, and pass through a section of the continent of which but very little is at present known. Its object is to consolidate the power of the New Dominion, and render accessible its remotest parts. But so mountainous and impervious is the country along the proposed route, especially on that part of it west of the Rocky mountains, that it may be doubted whether the road will ever be completed to the Pacific Ocean.

Still no response from the Herald to the severe strictures of the Albany Democrat. Does the Herald give up the fight? Is it not able to maintain its ground? The two papers are at variance on repudiation: the Herald for and the Democrat against. The latter has furiously attacked the position of the former, which neither replies nor reaffirms its position. Is the Herald going back from what it has said? Is it going to allow the Democrat to bully it into silence or recantation? The Herald is tame now, but no doubt it will be ready enough to take up the fight with its Albany rival after the election.

Some of the Democratic papers are charging us with misrepresentation in having stated that Mr. Slater was editor of a paper which was excluded from the mails for disunion utterances in 1862. Why cannot these critics be honest about this matter? It was Mr. Slater's Democratic friends who revived the story of that paper, and who claimed that he was entitled to public sympathy for the exclusion of his paper from the mails by a "tyrannical abolition government." Assuming their statement as to the ownership of the paper as true, we simply published extracts from it to show why it was so dealt with by the Government. Now they come forward and say that he had no connection with the paper at the time. The misstatement, if any, is theirs, not ours. If Mr. Slater did not own the Corvallis Union why did they place him on the list of martyrs on account of its being suppressed?

Letter from Baker City.

BAKER CITY, April 20, 1870.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

I am boiling over! The political thermometer has reached its climax here! Yesterday was a gala day in Baker City! The champions of the respective parties for Congress at the ensuing election held forth here yesterday. The REPUDIATION CHAMPION of the Oregon Democracy led off. He has a "bill of indictment" against the party in power. Two charges are set up in said bill. One is that it has brought "financial ruin" upon the country in its endeavors to suppress the rebellion and preserve the integrity of the Union. And the other is still more serious. It has reconstructed the recent rebel States without giving them their original Constitutions, slaves, and all the paraphernalia of a slave oligarchy! But Slater did not stick to his proof. He "pettyfogged" his case. He got "rantankerous," fretted and frothed about the "unconstitutional" acts of that "ineffable monster Lincoln!" Grammatically, Slater is a paragon. He said that "My friend (Wilson) will not dispute these facts that are facts." He offered to wager that "Wilson and his CONFERESS voted for Johnson." Conferess is good. No better, however, than many of his other egregious blunders which made several of his party hang their heads in shame for the palpable ignorance of their "color bearer." He went on, outside of his indictment, and told the old story of oppression, arrest without civil process, suppression of newspapers, and all that was considered by patriots essential to the suppression of the rebellion. He said the act creating paper money was "unconstitutional." Please remember that "unconstitutional" is his chorus. He told us one thing that was news up here; and that was "that he (Slater) was a lawyer." He doesn't care "if Wilson has been on the bench for eight years, he (W.) would find out that somebody else knew law too!" Then, for shame on the Anti-Repudiation Union-Party! Slater says that "It has no statesmen in it." Again, the reason why the Democratic party at Albany assembled, did not put a Railroad plank in their "platform," was that they knew what his private and political sentiments are on that question. Everybody knows that Jas. H. Slater would endorse railroad enterprises—of course they do. The world knew that before the assembling of the Albany Convention. Again, everybody knew (who had the distinguished honor of knowing him) that he was a Repudiationist too. The question that naturally arises from his own system of logic is, Why did the party at Albany take the trouble to put in their platform a Repudiation plank? That certainly was a work of supererogation; because everybody knew, or ought to have known that their chiefest Mogul was out and out repudiation.

Judge Wilson more than refuted every allegation made by his antagonist. He went to the record, and to the votes of Congress and to the Supreme Court decisions of the United States, and built up an impregnable argument against every false and unsupported assertion of Slater's speech. To give you anything like a detail of his argument is out of the question. Republicans and Democrats pronounce him by far the ablest speaker. He holds Slater to his platform, pummels him on the repudiation plank, catechises him about the non railroad plank in their platform, vindicates the action of the people in their ratification of the 14th and 15th amendments, and shows that the cause of the public debt originated with Democrats of the ilk of James H. Slater. He pronounced a glowing eulogy on the National Union party in its long struggle against the secession element of the nation and its present financial manipulators.

Altogether, Wilson was successful here, and it need not surprise you if Slater does not get over 25 majority in this county, which gave Seymour 163 majority the last election. Honest miners and farmers, and mechanics can not now, never did and never will endorse repudiation!

Everything looks well here. The Republican county ticket, or at least a majority of it, will be elected without doubt.

D.

Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe must be happy, if we are to believe the story of an unmannerly "interviewer" who recently thrust his unwelcome face into her presence in the quiet of her winter home among the orange groves of Florida. Here, he says, he found Prof. Stowe and the little St[illegible]. To start with, this ubiquitous quill driver asserts that the Professor furnishes suggestions for the sermons of the redoubtable Henry Ward Beecher! Then he thinks Harriet looks careworn, but he learned that when warm weather arrives, she and her two daughters will return to the East, while Fred Stowe, his cousin, and the wife of the same, a [illegible] baby, will remain to run the plantation. The property of the Stowes consists of a two story house, constructed of yellow pine, with a neatly decorated portico. The inquisitive scribe even insinuated himself into the bedrooms of the house, where he found both at the head and foot of each bed illuminated placards, with extracts from the Bible printed thereon. The products of the orange groves will average about eight hundred oranges to a tree and sell from $3 50 to $5 per hundred. Between the river and the orange grove is a large tract of low land where Mrs. Stowe is cultivating the India rubber tree and the sugar cane. The negroes on the plantation are paid $16 a month. When Fred attempts to be strict with them they promptly retort, but if Mrs. Stowe speaks only one word to them they are gentle. The estate where all this religious comfort is enjoyed cost the Stowe family but $2,500, cash.

Southern papers and people are enthusiastic over the visit of Gen. Lee. The Phœnix says that at Columbia, S. C., one ex confederate said with tears falling down his manly cheeks, "General we were overpowered, not whipped." and the crowd took it up and repeated it: "Overpowered, but not whipped."

Our Great Civil War in History.

In view of the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment, which completes the work of enfranchisement in this nation, and which opens the way for the realization of a truly republican government, the closing paragraphs of the third and last volume of Mr. Draper's "Civil War in America" are appropriate:

"And now we may contemplate the Republic whose existence has been vindicated by this civil war—the Republic of the future, whose seat is a continent, with the Atlantic and enlightened Europe on one side, the Pacific and the wealth of Asia on the other—the Pacific, with its hundreds of isles, beautiful as the Garden of Eden, and awaiting the approach of civilized man. It is a Republic with a net-work of railroads and telegraphs from sea to sea; its capital in the heart of its power; its population harmonized by wise institutions, speaking one language, obeying one constitution, disciplined by a uniform education, equal before the law; its national intellect organized, freedom of thought secured, a career of advancement fairly open to all, place given to talent. It is a military power, strong in the vast armies it can raise, swift in intercommunication, abounding in resources; a commercial power, having geographical advantages never yet alloted even to States most illustrious in the annals of the world. Tyre, Athens, England, have each lain in an eccentric position, with their depots, colonies, dependencies at a distance. If they, in spite of such disadvantages, could from the corners of the world put forth their influences and rise to so great a pitch of prosperity, what may not be expected of a power whose seat is in the midst of the nations, whose dominions are round her feet, whose rulers are Lords of the East and the West.

In that day of greatness and glory Americans will desire to put aside the remembrance of this war. The very descendants of those who lifted their hands against the Republic, will be ashamed of what their ancestors did, and seek to hide in forgetfulness the memory of their acts. They who fought for the perpetuation of human slavery will find in the future no friends. Their prosperity will look back on the accomplishment of emancipation and the establishment of nationality with pride; regarding the issue of the war, not as the victory of the North, but as the fiat of God.

All history tells us that Lost Causes do not live long. The Social war lasted three years, half a million men were destroyed, yet Rome quickly forgot it. In our ancestral country the remembrance of its civil wars has long ago passed away; yet in the American Conflict there was no battle as bloody as the battle of Towton. For a little while they who have been disappointed clamor; it is the privilege of the vanquished to exagerate everything; then objurgation subsides into murmurs, and murmurs sink into souvenirs, and souvenirs end in oblivion."

AN INDIAN RELIC. As a comment on the current talk in regard to an Indian massacre, Grace Greenwood puts the following in a recent letter:

While on a visit to the Land Office, I was shown by Wilson the Commissioner, a singular relic of a late fight on the plains. It was a garment taken from an Indian chief after death. A shirt of buckskin, made without the usual ornamentation of beads and porcupine quils, yet graced with something quite novel in the decorative way—a full, long fringe formed of the hair of white women and children. It was a ghastly adornment; indeed, the entire garment was a very unpleasant thing to inspect. The only point in it on which the eye could rest without horror or pity was a small round hole, beneath which the raging heart of a human wild beast came one day to a full stop.

One of the prize essays recently read at the University of Lemberg, in the Polish language, was a paper on the Life and Services of Abraham Lincoln." When the young author, the son of a poor nobleman, alluded to the Emancipation Proclamation, there were loud cheers, in which the students, the professors, and the spectators joined.

[illegible] MEETING.—At a meeting of the citizens of Portland on a call for the reduction of the county and city taxes, and the consolidation of the city and county governments, A. Myers was called to the Chair, and C. M. Carter elected Secretary.

After remarks by many, denouncing our system [illegible], and favoring the consolidation of the city and county governments, and the [illegible] of the salaries of all officers, the following resolutions were unanimously passed as the sense of the meeting.

Resolved, That we deem the reduction of city and county taxes as necessary to our prosperity and to the encouragement of investments by capitalists in our city and county.

Resolved, That to bring this about it is necessary to elect men to places of trust who will pledge themselves to carry out this object in every respect.

Resolved, That laws should be passed to consolidate the city and county governments, and to fix by law the salaries of all officers, to prevent the lavish expenditure of the public money and [illegible] corruption in every form.

Resolved, That from the experience of the consolidation of many cities and counties in our government the public expenditures have been reduced more than one-half, and that we are confident by the adoption of a similar system our county and city taxes can be reduced one half or [illegible] one-half.

It was moved, and carried unanimously, that a committee of six be instructed to canvass the city with petitions favoring the consolidation of the city and county governments and the reduction of our taxes.

The following is a copy of the petition:

To the Honorable Members of the Senate and Legislature of the State of Oregon: Your petitioners would respectfully represent, that they are opposed to the heavy and ruinous taxation, caused by the support of a separate government of the city of Portland, and believing that a consolidation of the government of the city of Portland with that of the county of Multnomah, on an [illegible] and judicious basis, with salaries [illegible], would greatly reduce taxes, retrench expenses, and promote the general good of the community. We therefore pray your honorable body to pass such law, as the necessity of the case requires to effect the above named purposes.

It was moved and carried, that the meeting adjourn to meet again on Thursday at a place to be designated by the Chairman and Secretary.

After adjournment every person present signed the petition.

A. MYERS, President.

C. M. CARTER, Secretary.

THE ORPHANAGE.—The Orphanage of the Sisters of Charity, which stands at the corner of [illegible] and Fifth streets, has been covered, enclosed, painted, and nearly finished on the outside. Several workmen are engaged on the inside. It is [illegible] to be completed about the 1st of June [illegible] to hold the Annual Examination and Exhibition of St. Mary's Academy in it.

[illegible].—Circuit Court, Judge W. W. Upton, in Chambers yesterday, ordered a decree [illegible] in the matter of a partition of lands [illegible] the Lownsdale heirs and Wm. Lair Hill, [illegible] the agreement absolute and perfect.

PASSENGERS.—Make room for passengers by the Moses Taylor to arrive on Saturday evening. Two hundred and eighty one is the number given in the dispatch to the [illegible] last evening. This will be the last arrival in April excepting one more trip of the California from the North, and the total number thus far for the month will be 1,007 passengers, an excess of 405 over the aggregate arrivals for March. These figures show that the [illegible] of our State is increasing in a very satisfactory manner. The following are on route per Moses Taylor: Gen E S Salomon, J R Hayden, Dr Geo Schweitzer, A Newman, Mrs W Newton, Mrs Mary Burke, M I Hartstuck and wife, T M Reed, and wife, R C McClun, A C R Shaw, N Steeth and wife, Miss Kann, Mrs Whitney, A Billings and wife, C Burgess and wife, L Sands, O H Staniard, J W Gilbert and wife, G W R [illegible]son, Henry Stridsen, W P Berger, W H McFarland and wife, W Harvey and wife, A Haskacher, M Koshland, Judge Dalos Lake and daughter, Judge L Sawyer, Milton Andrus, Dr A M Lyes and wife, J L Farrish and wife, Mrs L White, 3 children and servant, Mrs General Baker and servant, O B May, J M Staples, R Lipsett, R Wolf, M Erskine, John Thomas, B B Futis, R O Brien, N D Ross, R Brembart, B Peters, W J Humphrey, J P Case, M I Merrill, Joseph Bilger, P H Kosnet, J W Danny, J Levy, D McDougal, Mrs Butler, Mrs Mallett and 2 children, Mrs Scott and daughter, Mrs Williamson, S E M David and wife, Luke Hinshaw, H L Wing, H Reams and family, Mrs R Wing, Mrs Skinkle, Mrs M E Bowes, Geo Glass, Thos J Cottle, J J Sykes and wife, A I Thompson, N Foster, W F Reid, J O Clark, Geo Gildach, Geo Bridges, M M Snider, J C Knox, N D Crocket, F Cokain, C Ripson, W M Gibbs, D Roberts and family, Miss Nancy Fray, Mrs Danny and child, Mrs Griffith, and 20 others and 100 in the steerage.

MR RILEY'S LECTURE.—Owing to circumstances over which we had no control we did not attend the lecture delivered on Tuesday evening by Mr Riley. Mr C S Sprecher, however, has furnished us with the following notice of the lecture:

"On Tuesday evening, a very interesting lecture was delivered by Mr Geo P Riley, at the Philharmonic Hall. We do not know why there was no reporter there. Mr Riley impressed every one very favorably. There appeared at times a naturalness of pathos and humor which secured attention and unfeigned applause. There was a show of cultivated taste and scholarly polish quite beyond expectation. The lecture was replete with apt illustrations, pertinent quotations from the classics and from general literature and 'down East' stories, humorous, and to the point. Those who heard it felt that they had enjoyed a treat of good argument. As we left the hall we fell in with one of the 'Judges,' a prominent speaker of this State. He 'was astonished. He didn't know any one who could excel it.' 'Some of the antithesis were equal to Macauley's.' He was sorry 'there was no reporter present.'"

HARD ON HUMANITY.—It will be recollected that sometime last February, Mr Evan L. Morgan, late of this city, was drowned at Monterey. Intelligence of his death was received here by his brother, Mr L W Morgan, and arrangements were made to have the body brought to this city for final burial. Accordingly $100 was sent to San Francisco by an officer of one of the steamers in this trade and a letter written by the mail of the same steamer, to intercept a brother expected from the States. Some person unknown came in possession of the letter, and presented himself to the officer, who gave up the $100 on demand, as directed to do. The money was stolen, and the affair is a commentary upon fallen human nature. That such vile scoundrels as the thief in this case, are permitted to go at large can hardly be accounted for, yet it is true that the continent is filled with such beings, from one end to the other, and it proves that the utmost precaution is necessary in money transactions. It is for such reasons as this, that "personal identification" is necessary before regular money carriers will consent to pay checks and drafts.

BAD BEGINNING.—Walking up Front street yesterday morning, with our evening cotemporary, a new Oregon-made wagon and harness, attached to a pair of good looking horses, which was standing near Madison street, attracted our attention. We felt a disposition to compliment the purchaser of the rig for his good taste, but not seeing any person about likely to claim ownership, passed on. During the day this wagon, badly smashed up, came into the city for repairs. The rig was owned by Mr A McDonald, and he had started out into the country to buy produce, but when near the Fulton House on the Macadamized Road, one of the horses slipped, became frightened and both ran away, breaking the wagon and injuring the team by running on a woodpile. It was a bad beginning, but Mr. McDonald should take courage in the reflection afforded by that old proverb of the English dramatist, Fielding, that "a bad beginning indicates a good ending." Perseverance is the guide to success.

PROBABLY RUMORS ONLY.—We have very little faith in the statement that an opposition is to be started against the North Pacific transportation Company, on the routes from San Francisco north. In the first place there is no demand for any more or better accommodations than we find in the Holladay line at present; secondly, there is neither freight nor business for the steamers and coasters now employed; and lastly, as Mr Holladay's interests have become so much identified with the development of our State during the past two years, the public here would very probably stand by his interests if there were forty in opposition to him. In conversation with a San Francisco merchant upon this topic, we think that the same feeling exists below in regard to the N. P. T. Co., that we need nothing now which they do not give to facilitate the demands of trade. The story is perhaps no more than rumor.

EXCURSION.—The Fannie Troup, Capt. Turnbull, is considered to be chief amongst the finest river steamers in Oregon waters. Yesterday allusion was made to the fact that she now carries one of Wand & Davis' "Spark Catchers." Well, yesterday Capt. Turnbull, to show the fine qualities of this late invention, invited a number of ladies and gentlemen of this city to go with him on a short excursion. The invitation was responded to and the excursionists all came back with a word of commendation for the Fannie Troup, and the late attachment. Unfortunately we were left behind, but one of the party reported to us that not a spark or cinder escaped the catcher, but all were safely conducted into a box prepared to receive them. Excursionists by the Fannie Troup will have no complaints this summer of damaged garments from sparks of fire from her furnace.

MAN HURT.—An old gentleman by the name of Mooney, while walking in the lower portion of Oregon City on Monday night last, fell from the bridge which crosses a gulch just below the Congregational Church, and was very badly injured. He was alone at the time of the accident and frequently remaining away from his daughter's house over night, was not looked after until he was discovered about daylight the following morning. He has a daughter and grandchild living in this city, both of whom went up to Oregon City on Tuesday. His injuries may prove fatal, owing to his age, which is about 70 years.

ANOTHER MONUMENT ERECTED.—Mr Wm Young, monument and tomb-stone manufacturer of this city yesterday put up another very handsome monument near East Portland at the Catholic Cemetery, over the grave of Mr F J. Streibig, deceased. This monument is 7 feet in height, of pure white Vermont marble set on a base of Oregon granite. The main column is ornamented with a wreath of laurel and palm, surrounding a gothic cross. It is a fine memento to awaken the memory of a worthy citizen. It was erected by the widow of deceased, at a cost of about $300.

THE IRON INTEREST.—During the absence of Mr John Nation to the East he made it his special business to investigate the iron establishments of all the principal manufacturing points and he thinks he has added a fund of information to his previous knowledge of the business which will serve him well in his future operations in Oregon. We believe it is generally conceded that Mr Nation has been of great advantage to the foundry interests of this State and we are glad to know that he will remain here.

SETTLERS FOR W. T.—We understand that General Salomon, lately appointed Governor of Washington Territory from Illinois, will reach this city by the Moses Taylor, due on Saturday evening, en route to Olympia. We understand further that he brings with him a number of first rate German families who come to this region for the purpose of permanently locating. They will proceed on their journey from this place by the steamer California.

IDAHO PENITENTIARY.—Idaho Territory is to have a Penitentiary. The building has been provided for, and work will be commenced upon it the present season. Mr Marsh Millard, who has been on a business trip to Idaho this spring, contracted in the name of H W Corbett & Co., of this city, which firm he represented, for furnishing all the iron for the new building.

SHIPS COMING.—The Ida F. Taylor, which is the eighth vessel in the trade with New York and Portland, is now 117 days out. She is consigned to Messrs. McCracken, Merrill & Co. The [illegible], Capt Neilson, hence from Liverpool, is now about five months out. These together with the several other vessels reported from foreign ports for Portland will add materially to the wants of our trade or tonnage, after harvest in exporting the surplus grain.

[illegible].—In the case of P. Lavelle v. Thos Lyan, an action commenced in replevin of plaintiff's claim to a lot held by the defendant as collateral for a board bill (or storage) but which culminated in a suit for damages. Upon trial before Justice Waterman verdict was rendered for plaintiff. The case has been taken to the Circuit Court on appeal. E. C. Bronaugh for plaintiff, Judge Alanson Smith for defendant.

MAIN STREET.—Work has been commenced upon the proposed improvement of Main street, from Front to Park streets, by laying sidewalks where not laid previously and planking a carriage roadway, similar to Madison and other improved streets. This is a very desirable improvement long needed.

EMMET GUARD BALL.—The May ball of the Emmet Guard will be given on Monday evening next, May 2d, 1870. Tickets can be had of members of the Company. All who propose attending this party may depend upon having a pleasant time.

FURNITURE SALE.—Parties in want of choice furniture should recollect that to day the household of Mr. Put Smith will be open to the public, and Mr Richardson will dispose of the articles enumerated in the advertisement.

HARRISON STREET.—A large force of laborers, with horses and carts, were employed on the extension of the Harrison street grade yesterday. Considerable of an embankment has been cut down west of Sixth street.

THE RIVER.—Snow in the mountains has been melting for the last few days, and the Columbia river is rising considerably. The rise here, occasioned by back water was quite perceptible yesterday.

TRUSTEE APPOINTED.—We understand that W. S. Ladd, Esq., was yesterday appointed trustee of the Deponning fund.

Ho! ye young men who revel in fashion and wear "store clothes," ye prudent men who buy goods to get the worth of your cash, ye old men who buy goods to last the remainder of your lives, or any other man or boy who wants to buy the cheapest and best clothing, go to Kohn & Fishel, who have just opened the largest stock of Gents' Clothing and Furnishing Goods in the city. They have all the late styles of spring goods and propose to sell at rates that will please everybody.

Easy monthly payments at regular cash rates, can be arranged for the purchase of a GROVER & BAKER Sewing Machine. WM. CURRIER & Co., Agents.

Shaking and Burning.

It is not necessary to journey from the tropics to Alaska in order to experience the extremes of heat and cold. Thousands undergo all the inconveniences of this thermometrical change every day, or every other day, as the case may be, without the trouble of moving over the threshold. A word with these involuntary shakers! What are they doing to expedite their return to a medium temperature? to break the chills and banish the fever? Are they doing themselves with quinine, there by imperiling the soundness of their bones and impairing the vigor of their brains and nervous system? Some of them are no doubt, but not the majority of them, it is believed. The value of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a harmless and certain specific for fever and ague is understood and appreciated in all parts of the country where intermittents prevail. The credible of such localities begin to take it early in the spring, as a protection against the miasmatic which they are surrounded; not all of them, perhaps, for a blind [illegible] error is the speciality of some people, but the greater number.

If there is any fixed fact in therapeutics it is this, that the bitters are a far better safeguard against all the varieties of periodic maladies produced by unwholesome exhalations than any drug or compound in the materia medica of the profession. This assertion is made with all due respect to the faculty, but being an important truth, and one that nearly concerns the health of large settlements in various parts of the country and indeed of the public at large, it is made fearlessly. Founded on ample and unimpeachable testimony, it defies disproval.

To break up chills and fevers as well as to prevent them, there is nothing so reliable as this wholesome vegetable remedy.

The undersigned who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

A [illegible] wife stood at a lattice pane,
In a steady sad and brow
[illegible] the dreary, ceaseless rain,
[illegible] pouring down
Drip, drip, drip,
[illegible] the tiresome day,
[illegible] the poor little woman sighed, "Ah, me
What a wretched, weary day

[illegible] hand at the door,
A step as of one [illegible]
A kiss upon her lips once more,
An arm around her waist,
Throb, throb, throb
Went her little heart, grateful and gay
As she thought with a smile, "Well, after all
It isn't so dull a day

Forgot was the plashing rain
And the lowering skies above
For the sombre room was lighted again
By the blessed sun of love
Love, love, love
[illegible]
Without, it may threaten and frown if it will
Within what a glorious day

President Lincoln

THE SELECTION OF HIS CABINET FOR HIS SECOND TERM—A CHAPTER FROM THURLOW WEED'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY.

In the winter of 1865, I received a note from President Lincoln, asking me to come to Washington. Immediately after my arrival I called at the White House, and although early several persons were waiting to see the President. Mr. Lincoln requested me to call at an hour indicated, when I found him alone. He commenced the conversation by saying: "You will remember that after the result of the late Presidential election was known I told you that I expected to have more influence with the President now that he had got a new lease. You and your friends thought that they were severely tried during my first four years. I did not say much about it then, but intended, if circumstances were favorable to even up the account. I shall have Mr. Fessenden's resignation of the Treasury Department on Monday. Now, if you had the vacancy to fill whose name would you send to the Senate?"

I replied that, although wholly unprepared for such a question, yet I was not unprepared with a name that I would suggest for his consideration. I then mentioned Gov. Morgan, as, in my judgement, a suitable man for the place, provided it would answer to give the two leading places in his Cabinet to the State of New York.

"I anticipated this name," said Mr. Lincoln: "and even if I had not intended to consult your wishes, I should have felt quite safe in trusting the matter to your judgment. I can afford to give Gov. Morgan the Treasury, even though Mr. Seward has the State Department; because the Governor can be confirmed, and the people will sustain the appointment. But," he added, "this could not be done if a word or a whisper of it gets out. Can you and I keep the secret?" He then inquired if there was any doubt of Gov. Morgan's acceptance. I told him I thought not; that he had been a capable and successful merchant; that he had shown great executive and financial ability as Governor of our State; and that I could not doubt of his acceptance of a department in which he could render much greater service to his country. And, after some further conversation, Mr. Lincoln allowed me to suggest—in the strictest confidence, and in general terms—to Gov. Morgan that a contingency might happen, in which he would be called to the discharge of other duties.

On the way to the cars I stopped at Gov. Morgan's house; and, after very earnest injunctions of secrecy, made the suggestion, in terms so vague and general, as to leave the Governor wholly in the dark as to the nature of the duties referred to, and as to my authority to make the suggestion.

It was understood between Mr. Lincoln and myself that I should hasten home; and without disclosing or intimating the possibility of a vacancy in the United States Senate, do whatever might be done, with the knowledge I possessed, to give the proper direction to the question of filling Gov. Morgan's place in the Senate.

On my arrival at Albany, I had not a little curious conversation with Gov. Fenton, without whose co-operation it would have been impossible to move satisfactorily. I found that the gentlemen toward whom attention would naturally be drawn for such a position, resided in the western part of the State. I suggested Lieut.-Gov. Selden, or Judge J. C. Smith, as available; but I soon discovered that the Governor, like some of his predecessors, had aspirations for the United States Senate, when the time and opportunity should arrive. We then talked with less restraint of candidates in other portions of the State; and I left him with the belief that, should it become necessary to act, we could agree upon a suitable candidate. I now, however, with a better knowledge of his tactics, am confident that, had Gov. Morgan accepted the Treasury Department, Gov. Fenton would have been a candidate for the vacancy.

When the time came for Mr. Lincoln to supply the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Mr. Fessenden, he took the Senate and the country by surprise in the nomination of Gov. Morgan, who—so entirely had I failed to prepare him for the event—was quite as much surprised as his colleagues. Gov. Morgan, as soon as he could leave his seat, went over to the White House, and informed the President that he must decline the appointment. He consented, however, to leave the matter over two or three days, giving both himself and the President time for consideration. I returned immediately to Washington, and after a long interview with Gov. Morgan, was constrained to report his persistent declination to the President. I failed, however, as I then and now believe, to ascertain what were Gov. Morgan's real reasons for refusing the Treasury Department. Upon reporting that failure to Mr. Lincoln, he said, "That is very awkward, but we must look elsewhere for a Secretary. Who is your next man?" I replied that I was too much mortified by this missfire to try again. Mr. Lincoln said: "I am disappointed, for I thought Gov. Morgan would be willing to help us 'run the machine;' but I had two other men in my mind. What do you say to Mr. McCulloch or Mr. Hooper?" I replied that I had a high appreciation of the character and services of both gentlemen, but that I was personally almost unknown to them; that Mr. Culloch had been brought to Washington by Secretary Chase, and might be fairly supposed to have imbibed his views and impressions; and that I had no reason to believe that Mr. Hooper sympathized with Gov. Seward or his friends. Mr. Lincoln laughingly remarked that he supposed I could not forget how Massachusetts disappointed me at Chicago; adding, it was hard for Gov. Seward to be crowded out by a new man. And then he renewed his request for me to name a man. I then said, "Why not call Mr. Adams home?" "I have thought of that too," said Mr. Lincoln; "but will it do to have so long an interregnum?" I remarked that I thought Mr. Chandler, the Assistant-Secretary, capable and trustworthy. "True," said Mr. Lincoln, "we know that here; but will it do to let the Finance Department, on which so much depends, be run by deputy?" I then spoke for Senator Foster. "An excellent man," said Mr. Lincoln, "and one whom I would readily appoint, if Connecticut were large enough to be entitled to two members of the Cabinet." I finally suggested Mr. Hamlin. "Hamlin," said Mr. Lincoln, "has Senate on the brain, and nothing more or less will cure him." And then I gave it up; and Mr. Lincoln said, "Let us fall back on Mr. McCulloch, who now seems most available," adding, that he would hold the question open for two or three days, giving me time to confer as freely and frequently as I desired with that gentleman.

I found myself not a little embarrassed on my way, one Sunday morning, to the residence of Mr. McCulloch. The idea of establishing relations with that gentleman, "on compulsion," seemed like seeking knowledge under difficulties. These difficulties, however, disappeared by degrees, as our conversation proceeded. There were two elements in the character of Mr. McCulloch on which, per se, I was disposed to rely. He had Scotch blood in his veins, and had been in politics a Whig.

This may be a proper occasion to say that, during my whole political life, in all similar conversions in reference to important political interests, I never asked or intimated a desire to receive, directly or indirectly, anything in the shape of a pledge or a promise, nor have I ever, in reference to such things, regarded a man from whom such pledges or promises were required or who was capable of giving them, worthy of confidence and respect. After Mr. Lincoln's first election as President he invited me to Springfield, where I passed two days with him in free consultation about the great questions upon which he would be called to act. Mr. Lincoln was frank and unrestrained, evidently inviting corresponding frankness and freedom on my part. His Cabinet, his inaugural, his policy, &c., &c., were fully discussed; and when I was about to take my leave, Mr. Lincoln inquired playfully, as if he had forgotten something, added, after a moment's pause, "You have not asked for any offices." I replied that when the proper time arrived I should probably, like hosts of other patriots, ask for such favors. "But," said Mr. Lincoln, "you have the reputation of taking time by the forelock. I was warned to be on my guard against you, and the joke of the matter is, that those who gave the warning are after offices themselves, while you have avoided the subject."

But, going back to Mr. McCulloch, my interviews with that gentleman, if protracted, were made so by his intelligent, right minded and straightforward expression of views and opinions. If, in going to Mr. McCulloch, I had something of the feeling of "Toots" in calling on "Capt. Cuttle" for the "favor of his friendship," I left him with a strong feeling of regard and confidence, and so reported to Mr. Lincoln, who immediately sent his name to the Senate—a step which neither Mr. Lincoln nor the people have had any occasion to regret. On the contrary, Mr. McCulloch proved himself an enlightened, independent, and upright Secretary of the Treasury. To the friends whom I represented he was just and faithful. To myself, who was frequently compelled to occupy his time and attention, he was uniformly courteous and patient, always granting what was proper and in his power to grant, and never refusing without a good reason and in a friendly spirit. All my recollections of Mr. McCulloch in his Department—the only place, I am sorry to say, that I ever met him—are pleasant ones.

Gen. Sherman and Gen. Logan—the Truth of History.

(From the Chicago Tribune.)

A Washington telegram asserts that Gen. Sherman is very bitter about the Army bill, and that he does not hesitate to state that the attempt to cut down his pay originates in spite at his refusal to give Gen. Logan the command of Gen. McPherson when the latter was killed.

We regret that Gen. Sherman's love of material ease should cause him thus to malign an old comrade in arms to whom he owes much of his own renown. Gen. Sherman could not refuse to give Gen. Logan what the latter never asked. Fairly as Gen. Logan deserved the command of McPherson, of blessed memory, and although the whole army expected he would receive it, he never asked for it. The facts are these. On that memorable 22d of July when the fate of the Army of Tennessee, and of the Atlanta campaign, depended largely upon the commanding officer, Gen. McPherson was one of the first, if not the very first man killed. Immediately upon the death of McPherson, before the battle had hardly begun, Gen. Logan, by virtue of his rank, assumed command of the Army of the Tennessee, and conducted the battle of that eventful day to a successful issue. This, and the battle of Ezra Church, fought six days afterward, on July 28, two of the severest battles of the Atlanta campaign—battles which did very much to set the triumphant laurels upon Gen. Sherman's brow—were fought by Gen. Logan. After these two battles and not before, Gen. Howard took command, and Gen. Logan returned to the command of the Fifteenth Corps, without having asked for promotion, and without expressing a word of regret or disrespect to Gen. Sherman. It may be that Gen. Logan thought that the command justly belong to him; it is certain that his army thought so, Gen. Hooker, to whom, after McPherson's death, the command properly belonged as next in rank, thought so; and he was noble and manly enough to say that he believed the promotion was due to Gen. Logan, to whose appointment over his own head he would make no objections. Gen. Howard an officer inferior in rank, having, however, been placed in command, Gen. Hooker resigned, and left Sherman's army.

This, in brief, is the story of the succession in command of the Army of the Tennessee after the death of McPherson. Gen. Logan did not seek the promotion which he deserved, as Gen. Sherman, we believe, has since himself acknowledged, nor did he complain that he did not receive it, but continued bravely to do his duty, as he had always done before. And now, in a different sphere of action, he seeks to relieve the country of the incubus which the war has created, choosing, as one means to this end, the reduction of the extravagant salaries of army officers, of whom Gen. Sherman will obey the commands of his superior, the people, in Congress assembled, as gracefully as Gen. Logan retired to the command of the Fifteenth Corps, after having victoriously led the Army of the Tennessee through two of the greatest battle of the Atlanta compaign.

The Emperor Napoleon and his Prime Minister, both of whom are said to be passable violinists, are to perform a violin duet at one of the amatuer concerts soon to be given at the Tuilleries.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET CORNER COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases of years standing and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering on a universal basis from the effects of [illegible] absorbed into the system! [illegible] tions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In the morbid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who knows how to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequently insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, by enclosing Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen, and became doctors to work at their trades. Some are cobblers, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory, and you will find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find them former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1865. The only way to avoid imposition is to make enquiry. It will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten, are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon's answers to the people by referring them to merchants, bankers, and others. Every letter, order, attention or certificate is paid in the name of your health, [illegible] Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may be interested in [illegible] to the necessary letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy patients who may call at his office [illegible] that he proposes to cure.

Address Dr. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, (Private Entrance on Commercial) San Francisco. Post Office Box 957.
